American Consul) speaks of the tests of the jugglers, and of the theatres of Yeddo, as well as of the extensive stores. He says that the Prince of Cinano, called up some of his jugglers to perform before bim. One of them was the "Anderson" of Japan. Here are some of his feats.

"No. 1. He took an ordinary boy's top. spun it in the air, caught it on his hand, and then placed it (still spinning) upon the edge of a sword near the hilt. Then he dropped the sword's point a little and the top moved slowly toward it. Arrived at the very end, the hilt was lowered in turn and the top brought back. As usual, the sword was dangerously sharp. "No. 2 was also performed with the top .-He spun it in the air, and then threw the end of the string back toward it with such accuracy that it was caught up and wound itself siready for a second east. By the time it had done this it had reached his hand and was ready for another spin. "No. 3 was still performed with the top -There was an upright pole, upon the top of which was perched a little house with a very large front door. The top was spun, made to climb the pole, knock open the said front door, and disappear. As well as I remember the hand end of the string was fastened near the door, so that this was almost a repetition of the self-winding feat.

"But feat No. 4 was something even more astonishing than all this. He took two paper butterflies, cast them into the air, and fanning gently, kept them flying about him as if they had been alive.

"He can make them alight whenever you through the interpreter.

fortably seated. Now, whether this command over pieces of paper was obtained simply by currents of air, or by the power of a concealed magnet. Mr. H, --- could not tell or ascertain. One thing however, was certain-the power was there.

FIGHT WITH A BEAR IN THE WATER. Passengers by the Port Huron boats describe the killing of a targe bear in the neighborhood of that place, a day or two since, in first-class writers engaged, (among them some a peculiar manner. A man who lives on the of the most distinguished of the day,) who are river, early in the morning, and on his way compelled, from pre-existing engagements, or across, discovered a large bear, who was en- other causes, to withhold their names for the gaged in the same mission as himself, viz, present, but who will, nevertheless, contribute endeavoring togain her Majestys dominions. He immediately made for the animal, and, being able to make better headway through the water, soon overtook him, and struck him as soon as satisfactory arrangements can be on the head with one of his oars having no other weapon. The bear turned on him, and with the utmost coolness commenced eliabing into the heat, the man in the meantime belaboring his skull with the oar with all his might. The assailing party by this time found that he had caught a Tartar, and that he was likely to become the captured party bimself.

This apprehension was rendered nearly a certainty by the capsizing of the boat just as frightened, found himself in the water, clinglooking at him over the inverted bottom from | any time. the other side. He then made a desperate effort, righted the boat, ducked the bea got in again, but was no sooner aboard than the bear made another rush at him and upset the boat again. A lively scene of flounderings followed, which was fast bringing matters to a crisis, when the battle was ended by the arrival of another man in a boat who had witnessed the fight from the shore, and come off to the assistance of the first adventurer. He split the bear's head open with an axe, killing him instantly. The animal weighed over 400 pounds .-- Detroit
